Minor Hotels Grows Bookings With Realize Across New Markets

To reach local audiences efficiently, Minor Hotels used Realize, Taboola's Al-driven performance advertising platform, which helps brands reach high-intent audiences and deliver measurable outcomes across native, display, and video placements on the open web. Realize allowed them to activate native advertising across premium Thai publishers and reach high-intent audiences through credible, contextually relevant placements. The campaign successfully drove high-quality traffic and direct bookings through Minor Hotels' website, extending reach beyond traditional search and social channels and supporting sustained growth in a strategically important regional market.

By adding Realize to their media mix, Minor Hotels could diversify their reach while keeping budget efficiency in check. The creative strategy balanced reach and conversion: video ads introduced the brand to new audiences, followed by retargeting to drive them further down the funnel. The visuals paired aspirational travel imagery with clean, inviting design to evoke a sense of luxury and exploration. Headlines like "Experience the world" in elegant script set the tone in the ads, while the landing page consistently reinforced it with messaging like "Follow your own path."

For targeting, they tapped into both Realize first-party and third-party audience capabilities. Realize Audiences (first-party) are built from behavioral signals across Taboola's large publisher network. Those include what users read, how often they revisit topics, and the products they engage with, without relying on cookies. Realize Marketplace Audiences (third-party) bring in additional segments from external data providers integrated into Taboola's platform. Together, they gave Minor Hotels the reach and precision to connect with likely travelers or expatriates.

To track and optimize return on ad spend, Minor Hotels implemented the Realize pixel and used Maximize Conversions bidding strategy, which uses AI to automatically adjust bids in real time for the highest possible number of conversions within the set budget. They also used even traffic allocation to ensure each creative variation received a fair share of impressions before optimization shifted spend toward the best performers.

Minor Hotels Earns 5x Roas Through Realize Testing And Optimization

As the campaign ran, the pixel collected booking confirmation data so the platform could optimize directly toward the advertiser's ROAS goals, using its Maximize Conversions bidding.

The Minor Hotels team worked closely with Taboola on a series of optimizations. Realize's even traffic allocation gave each creative enough exposure to gather meaningful data, making it easier to see what worked, adjust quickly, and recommend stronger variations. The Taboola team tested new creative variations, suggested headlines better suited to high-intent audiences, and adjusted targeting based on early performance signals.

Through this continuous cycle of testing, learning, and applying best-practice optimizations, the campaign scaled into new markets while steadily improving efficiency, ultimately delivering five times the ROAS and reinforcing Realize's ability to turn initial learnings into sustained performance growth.
